Modern Savage — Influencer Seeding Brief

Built: April 28, 2026 Author: Junior For: Jesse — approve by May 23. Calvin executes June 1 seed wave. Objective: 6-10 organic posts from credible voices before July 1 launch

---

The Strategy

Modern Savage is not a mainstream supplement. The organ blend story requires credible voices who already believe in ancestral/primal nutrition — not celebrity endorsements, but authentic practitioners who will try it and speak genuinely.

The ask: Gifting only. No paid partnership, no scripts. Send the product, a brief handwritten-style letter, and let them post or not post as they choose. No obligation framing. The more genuine the reaction, the more useful it is.

The mechanism: Ship 3-bottle pack (1-month supply) with a brief letter from Bear. Target: arrive June 1-7. Brief: post if you love it, no pressure if not. Aim for 6-10 organic posts by June 25, ahead of July 1 launch.

The "Founding Savage" Package (What to Send)

1. 3x Modern Savage bottles (1-month supply, adult organ blend)
2. Handwritten-style letter from Bear (short — see template below)
3. One-page product brief — what's in it, why organ nutrition, Bear's personal ritual
4. No paid deal language, no disclosure requirement (gifting is gifting — they disclose if they post and they see fit)

> Bear's Letter Template (to be personalised)

> "Hey [Name] — putting together something I've wanted to build for a long time. It's called Modern Savage. The idea is simple: go back to what our ancestors ate before supplements became marketing. Whole organs, freeze-dried, nothing added. I take it every morning before anything hard. If you think it's worth sharing with your people, brilliant. If not, no obligation at all. Bear."

Adjust tone per recipient — Ross Edgley gets a more physical endurance angle, Gary Brecka gets the methylation/bioavailability angle, Ant Middleton gets the SAS/hard morning ritual angle.

Target List — 20 People

> TIER 1 — Global Reach (3M+ Instagram). Highest priority.

1. Gary Brecka (@garybrecka)

- Reach: 3M Instagram, #1 Wellness Podcast (Ultimate Human Pod)
- Why: Human biologist, methylation genetics, biohacking. His entire thesis is that modern nutrition misses ancient bioavailability. Modern Savage is his argument in product form. His audience is exactly Bear's audience: male, 30-45, performance-obsessed.
- Angle for letter: "The organ nutrition angle — bioavailability your body already recognises."
- Contact: Instagram DM / ultimatehumanpod.com business contact
- Flag: Gary is paid-deal-heavy. Gift approach may not move him. Worth trying — worst case he ignores.

2. Wim Hof (@iceman_hof)

- Reach: 4M Instagram
- Why: Extreme challenge, primal philosophy, cold exposure as ancestral practice. Bear and Wim are genuinely kindred spirits. Both built on the "the body is more capable than you think" thesis. A Wim Hof post for Modern Savage is the most natural seeding in this list.
- Angle for letter: "Same philosophy as cold — going back to what the body was designed for."
- Contact: iceman.nl — there's a business contact form. Worth a direct DM from Bear's account if Jesse knows him.
- Flag: Check if Bear and Wim have an existing relationship — if yes, this becomes a personal note, not a cold send.

3. Thomas DeLauer (@thomasdelauer)

- Reach: 2M Instagram, 4M YouTube
- Why: Nutrition coach, highly analytical. Known for breaking down the science of fasting, metabolic health, carnivore-adjacent. His audience trusts him specifically because he explains

WHY things work. The organ nutrition science (CoQ10 in heart tissue, retinol in liver, selenium in kidney) is exactly what Thomas talks about.

- Angle for letter: "The nutrient density argument — what the science says about organ bioavailability."
- Contact: thomasdelauer.com / Instagram DM
- Note: May need a short fact sheet on the ingredients to give him something to work with.

> TIER 2 — UK Core + Adventure Aligned (1-3M). Essential for UK launch.

4. Ant Middleton (@antmiddleton)

- Reach: 1M Instagram, 2.5M books sold, high media profile
- Why: Former UK Special Forces (SAS, SBS, Parachute Regiment). SAS: Who Dares Wins. Same world as Bear. Has his own hydration supplement (R3SUP) so understands the supplement-as-lifestyle angle. His audience is male, 28-45, military/adventure mindset. Exactly Modern Savage's buyer.
- Angle for letter: "The morning ritual angle — what hardmen put in their body before anything difficult."
- Contact: Instagram DM, or management via antmiddleton.com
- Flag: Ant was axed from Channel 4. Still relevant in the adventure space. Has commercial instincts — may want a paid arrangement eventually. Gift first.

5. Ross Edgley (@rossedgley)

- Reach: 1M Instagram
- Why: British extreme endurance athlete. Swam 1,780 miles around Great Britain (157 days). Swam 1,000 miles around Iceland (2025). Used organ nutrition during record swims — literally ate raw fish liver on his Great British Swim to get through it. This product is his exact philosophy. Myprotein ambassador for the fitness side, but not organ supplements.
- Angle for letter: "You ate more organ nutrition than anyone alive on your swims. Now it's a capsule."

- Contact: rossedgley.com contact / Instagram DM
- Flag: Ross is extremely credible in the UK market specifically. His audience overlaps heavily with Bear's UK audience.

6. Dr. Gabrielle Lyon (@drgabriellelyon)

- Reach: 1M Instagram, 2x NYT Bestselling Author (Forever Strong)
- Why: Board-certified physician, "muscle-centric medicine." Entire thesis: protein and organ nutrition are the foundation of muscle longevity. Her audience: high-performing men AND women who care about aging well through nutrition. Very credible science anchor.
- Angle for letter: "The muscle medicine angle — organ nutrition as the missing piece in the protein conversation."
- Contact: drgabriellelyon.com / Instagram DM
- Note: Female-skewed audience but very high credibility. Her endorsement adds scientific legitimacy, not just lifestyle endorsement.

7. Dr. Rhonda Patrick (@foundmyfitness)

- Reach: 1M Instagram, major podcast
- Why: PhD biomedical science. Micronutrients, mitochondrial function, sauna, cold. Her audience supplements obsessively and reads ingredient labels. The Aquamin, AstraGin, and Zynamite story would interest her specifically.
- Angle for letter: "The micronutrient argument — what organ tissue contains that synthetics can't replicate."
- Contact: foundmyfitness.com / Instagram DM
- Flag: Rhonda is very careful about what she endorses. She may not post without more clinical backing. Include the product brief with full ingredient citations.

> TIER 3 — Specialist / High Alignment (300K-1M)

8. Shawn Baker MD (@shawnbaker1967)

- Reach: ~500K Instagram
- Why: Orthopedic surgeon, carnivore diet pioneer, Revero founder. The most credible medical voice in the carnivore/ancestral space who isn't running a competing organ supplement brand. His audience already uses desiccated organ products.
- Angle: Standard ancestral nutrition framing.
- Contact: Instagram DM / Revero.health

9. Stan Efferding (@stanefferding)

- Reach: 379K Instagram
- Why: World's Strongest IFBB Pro, Vertical Diet creator. The Vertical Diet is literally built on organ meat and whole-animal nutrition. His athletes (Chris Duffin, Hafthor Bjornsson, etc.) would be secondary exposure. Strength athlete audience = Modern Savage's prime buyer profile.
- Angle: "The whole-animal protein angle — what the Vertical Diet has been saying for years."
- Contact: Instagram DM / stanefferding.com

10. Mark Sisson (@marksissonprimal)

- Reach: 248K Instagram
- Why: Primal Blueprint founder, NYT bestselling author. Primal Kitchen sold to Kraft Heinz for $200M. He invented the "primal" brand category that Modern Savage is built in. His endorsement would be ideologically perfect — he's the godfather of primal nutrition.
- Angle: "The primal nutrition full circle — organ food in a format people will actually take."
- Contact: marksdailyapple.com / Instagram DM
- Flag: May be contractually limited post-Kraft Heinz acquisition. Worth a try.

> TIER 4 — UK Micro-Macro (100K-500K). Lower cost, high engagement rates.

11. James Stirling (@london_fitness_guy)

- Reach: ~800K Instagram (major UK fitness account)
- Why: One of the top UK male fitness voices. Younger audience (25-35) moving into performance nutrition. UK reach is valuable for the UK launch.
- Contact: London Fitness Guy business page

12. Scott Baptie (@scottbaptie)

- Reach: ~200K Instagram
- Why: Scottish PT, food-first whole-food philosophy. Regular contributor to Men's Health UK. His "food first" philosophy aligns with organ nutrition. UK-specific reach.
- Contact: foodfortitude.co.uk

13. Steve Kamb (@nerdfitness / NerdFitness)

- Reach: ~250K. Long-form content, highly engaged audience. "Ancestral training" approach. Less visual-focused but email list is large.
- Contact: nerdfitness.com

14. Chris Williamson (@chriswillx)

- Reach: ~1M Instagram, Modern Wisdom podcast. Very male, 25-40, philosophy/self-improvement. Had Bear on the podcast? Check. His audience would buy Modern Savage.
- Contact: Instagram DM / modernwisdompodcast.com

15. The Diary of a CEO / Steven Bartlett (already a target for PAID pod partnership — different track)

> TIER 5 — Functional Medicine / Kharrazian Network (Credibility layer)

16. Dr. Chris Knobbe — Ophthalmologist, ancestral diet researcher. Smaller audience but highly credible in the functional medicine world.

17. Dr. Paul Mason (@drpaulmpaulm) — Australian sports medicine physician, carnivore/ancestral diet. Good credibility, smaller UK/AUS reach.

18. Mikhaila Peterson (@mikhailapeterson) — Daughter of Jordan Peterson. Pioneered the carnivore diet to treat autoimmune conditions. Very public profile, carnivore-exact audience.

19. Kelly Starrett (@dr.kellystarrett) — Mobility and performance. Less ancestral but high-performance male audience.

20. Dr. Ken Berry (@kendberry.md) — US family physician, carnivore diet, 2M+ followers on YouTube. Very authentic, no-frills, will post if he genuinely likes it.

Who NOT to Target

Person	Reason
Paul Saladino	Runs Heart & Soil — direct competitor
Liver King (Brian Johnson)	Steroid scandal. Brand association risk too high.
Nick Bare	Founder of Bare Performance Nutrition — conflict
Eddie Hall	Runs Beast Pharm supplement brand — conflict
Andrew Huberman	Too large for gifting approach; his supplement (Athletic Greens/AG1 partnership) creates category concerns
Jordan Peterson	Brand risk, political association, audience is not health buyers

---

Timeline

Date	Action	Owner
May 23	Jesse approves list + personalises Bear letter for top 5	Jesse
May 26-30	Calvin sends personalised letters + ships products	Calvin / Ships A Lot

June 1	Products arrive at Ships A Lot UK	Ships A Lot
June 1-7	Packages dispatched to all 20 influencers	Ships A Lot
June 14	First posts expected (some will be immediate, some after using product)	Organic
June 28	Chase: WhatsApp/DM to anyone who hasn't posted, no pressure	Calvin
July 1	LAUNCH — any posts in the 14 days prior count as launch press	All

---

Budget Estimate

Item	Cost
|------|------|
20x 3-bottle packs (gifting stock)	~$4,140 (60 bottles at ~$69 each — ask Ships A Lot if discounted for gifting stock)
Branded packaging inserts	~£200
Postage (UK + US)	~£400-600
Total	~$5,000-5,500

Note: Bear's team ships directly from Ships A Lot stock once it arrives. This assumes product arrives June 1 for influencer seeding. If product is delayed past June 1, adjust accordingly — late seeding still works, the posts just land closer to launch.

Expected Outcomes

- 10-20% post rate (2-4 posts from 20 sends) is a typical organic gifting conversion
- Target: 6-8 posts by June 28 — achievable if top-tier influencers are personally reached out to
- One Wim Hof or Gary Brecka post = 500K impressions minimum
- 10 posts from Tier 3-4 = same reach, more authentic-seeming at launch

The goal is not saturation — it's credibility. Three posts from genuinely respected voices in the ancestral nutrition space does more for Modern Savage's early buyers than 30 generic fitness influencer posts.

Personalisation Priority (Jesse to do)

Jesse or Bear should send a direct personal DM or WhatsApp to Wim Hof and Ross Edgley specifically — if there's any existing relationship. A note from Bear to Wim is not a cold send. These two converts would be worth more than the rest of the list combined.

Built April 28, 2026. Calvin to execute from this brief once Jesse approves the list and personalises the top-5 Bear letters.

Built April 28, 2026 by Junior. Jesse approves list by May 23. Calvin executes June 1.